enough concessions to their adversaries and that to make more would be to impose upon themselves unnecessary and uncalled for humiliation.

The Russians who are officially at Portsmouth is connection with the peace conference do not know what to expect of the President's action. Mr. Witte has been away all day at Magnolia, Mass., visiting the Baroness Rosen and her daughter. He got back to-night. Baron Rosen was to accompany Mr. Witte on this trip, but the plan was knocked galleywest last night by the receipt of the President's message, which required Baron Rosen's presence at Oyster: Bay. So Mr. Witte went alone. As for the Japanese, they are saying nothing. Baron Komura went driving this afternoon, and Mr. Takahira and some of the Japanese mission went for an outing Theirs is a waiting game, and they are There was please of excitement at the Hotel Wentworth late last night, after the President's message was received. A search was made for Mr. Peirce, but he could not be found. The cottage in which he lives is about a mile from the Wentworth but those who sought him there found that he had gone out for the evening. In some way it was ascertained that Mr. Peirce was at York Harbor, over in Maine, fifteen miles from the Wentworth. It was after midnight when Mr. Peirce reached the hotel. He made the trip in an automobile, and lost no time in the journey.

Jumping from his muddy motor car, he made his way quickly to Mr. Witte's apartments to deliver the President's message. There occurred a short consultation between Mr. Witte, Baron Rosen and Mr. Peirce, and when this was over the President's representative jumped into his automobile again and was whirled over to the main building of the Wentworth, a hundred varies or so distant.

There he made a rush for the telephone booth, and after frantic efforts to get Oyster Bay he gave up the attempt and jumped for the telegraph office in the hotel. There he sat down beside an operator and diotated messages which were probably addressed to the President. The rumor went around among the newspaper correspondents, who gathered in the corridor outside the telegraph room and wondered what was up, that the President was on the other end of the wire. Half an hour passed with Mr Peirce still sitting beside the operator and dictating to him. When rose he quickly strode to the porte cochère, entered the waiting automobile and was whirled off to his cottage.

In summoning a representative of Russis to Oyster Bay the President did not disclose his purpose. He merely sent a mes-sage to Mr. Witte through H. H. D. Peirce, the Federal Government's representative at the peace conference, saying that he had an important communication to make, and asking that Baron Rosen be sent to Oyster Bay if possible.

The President's choice of Baron Roses for this important mission was based, of course, on the fact that Baron Rosen is the diplomatic representative of Russia in the United States, and as such the proper person to treat with the head of the nation to which he is accredited.

Through him the President can communicate directly with the Czar, although it is unlikely that any message will be sent by Baron Rosen to his Emperor without the concurrence of Mr. Witte.

The reason of the President's desire to deliver his communication to Baron Rosen personally, and probably orally, is easily understood.

He could conduct the exchanges through Mr. Meyer, the American Ambassador at St. Petersburg, but to do so would be to give a formal official status to whatever the President has to say, and the position which Mr. Roosevelt occupies in the peace negotiations as a neutral is a little too delicate to permit that, according to the views of those acquainted with the proprieties of diplomatic interchange. In all the exchanges preliminary to the peace conference conducted by the President at Washington most of his messages to St. Petersburg and Tokio were delivered rally to Count Ambassador, and Mr. Takahira, the Japanese Minister, who is here as one of his sovereign's peace plenipotentiaries. There is little, perhaps nothing, of written record in the files of the White House and the State Department to show what the President was doing at that time in connection with his peace movement. As a neutral, extremely anxious to avoid hurting the sensitiv feelings of either belligerent, he avoided sending direct messages to the Governments at St. Petersburg and Tokio. In the present instance he is doubtless actuated by the same motive of discretion, preferring that his communications shall be delivered informally to Russia and Japan through the medium of others not officially connected with the Government of the United States.

There has been much speculation here to-day as to whether the President will have the support of the Kaiser in his effort to prevent the Portsmouth conference from ending in failure. Most of the foreigners maintain that Emperor William will hold himself strictly aloof from any such movemont. They say that the Kaiser wants the war to go on and at the recent conference sured the Czar that Germany wanted Russia to fight to the last ditch.

JAP GENERALS PRAISE U. S. Oyama and Kodama Alive to Power of Roosevelt's Peace Efforts.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.-The Daily News to-night publishes a cablegram from its correspondent with Gen. Oyama's army in Manchuria, reading as follows:

FAR REACHING CANAL OPINION. Atterney-General Holds That Towns Must Bridge Canalized Rivers.

UTICA; N. Y., Aug. 19.—Several months ago the authorities of this city were formally notified that the new channel of the Mohawk River, constructed at a cost to the city of over $100,000 and now nearing completion, would be utilized by the State as the channel for the proposed barge canal. As new bridges will have to be constructed across the river forthwith the city hit upon the plan of inviting the State's financial cooperation in the building of the costly steel structures. Insamuch as the bridges would span the new barge canal eventually the State agreed to the suggestion that it bear half the ex-pense and the State Engineer prepared plans and arranged to advertise for bids

To-day, however, comes the announce-ment that Attarney-General Mayer holds that it will be illegal for the State to pay for the construction of the proposed bridges. for the construction of the proposed bridges. He reached the conclusion on the basis that the Mohawk River is a public highway, and that as such the construction of bridges across it is a matter for the localities where across it is a matter for the localities where the bridges are to be located and not a legal object of expenditure on the part of the State. This decision is set forth in an opinion which he has rendered to State Engineer and Surveyor Van Alstyne.

The advice of the Attorney-General will probably be followed by the State Canal Board, but the question involved will undoubtedly be carried into the courts for final determination, as it will affect every bridge which it may be necessary to confinal determination, as it will affect every bridge which it may be necessary to construct across the Mohawk River in connection with the building of the barge canal. It has been understood heretofore that in the laws already passed for the construction of the barge canal there is abundant authority for the State to proceed to erect all the bridges that will be necessary to cross the canalized river throughout the long section of the Mohawk Valley, where the barge canal and the river become one.

Not only is this decision a matter of great Not only is this decision a matter of great importance to Utica, but to many other places along the line of the proposed canel. If the law holds good that all the towns along the Mohawk have to erect such bridges as the State shall direct over the canalized Mohawk River, then it will be necessary for the towns and municipalities west of Oneida Lake along Oneida and Senaca rivers to erect such bridges as shall be deemed necessary there.

TO STOP EMPIRE TRACK RACES?

Westchester Authorities Asked to Preven

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 19.-District Attorney Young was asked to-day to stop the racing meet of the Horse Fair Association of New York, which is scheduled to take place at the Empire track on Monday. The protest against the meet is said to have emanated from the State Racing Association.

It is alleged that the Horse Fair Association of New York has no authority to hold its meet, and that in so doing it acts contrary to chapter 570 of the laws of 1895.

The new association was organized in March, 1895, with a capital of $25,000. Its directors are William McAsthur of 2008. directors are William McArthur of 2008 Seventh avenue, George F. Scofield, Jr., of 63 Wall street and William Donahue of 122 West Eighty-fourth street, Manhattan.

It is stated that the association offers $10,800 in purses and prizes for the meet; that it is the purpose to conduct running races and sell pools; that no license has been issued to the new racing association and that none has been applied for.

Assistant District Attorney Weeks told a reporter that he had received the papers to-day, accompanied by a copy of the proposed programs. He held a conference with Sheriff Merritt, who referred the whole matter to Lawyer Henry R. Barrett, his private counsel. The Sheriff says if his counsel decides that the meet is unlawful he will have sufficient deputies at the Empire track on Monday to stop the racing

The headquarters of the Horse Fair Association is in the Times Building, Manhattan. There was a rumor at the court house to-day that the association will fight the case.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 19 .- This has been an off day with the peacemakers. It is up to St. Petersburg, Tokio and Oyster Bay now. The official members have rested from their labors and the unofficial have let themselves be gay. Rosen has gone to Oyster Bay to see President Roces. Witte has gone to Magnolia to keep his engagement with Baroness Rosen, which the Baron was obliged to decline, owing to the appearance of Presiient Rocsevelt'as a factor. Komura has been off driving all day. Of the four envoys, only the silent, exact, smileless Takahira is about the hetel, and he keeps to his room. Even the Russian attachés have gone on shopping trip to Boston.

It is a cool day. Since the mosquitoes left us, most of these August days have been cool about the Wentworth. This is surely up by the Canadian border. The apanese were to have gone to York Beach o-day, making the trip by launches. Sec retary Peirce had the launches ready and the invitation had been accepted, but comething went wrong. Something seems always to go wrong when the Japanese accept an invitation. Last Sunday morning, for example, they had said that they would be charmed to attend Christ Church in Portsmouth. Somehow, they didn't arrive. It was given out that the automobiles had failed to arrive on time. They would be enraptured, however, to be at Christ Church in the evening. At the vesper service the ushers waited outside the door the whole evening long to welcome the Japanese. No Japanese. Two of them had stolen away to the Christian Church at Kittery Point, and the rest were at home.

Something of the kind happened in connection with the York harbor trip. Men of experience say that it reminds them of the time when the correspondents were waiting in Tokio to get to Manchuria. The Japanese were always on the point of sending them, but the unforeseen accident always arrived. Europeans have not earned yet that a Japanese "no" is framed usually in a courteous and smiling "yes."

Secretary Peirce hasn't learned that, for one. He had charge of the York beach When the Japanese did not appear at the launch landing he posted to the hotel. He found the Ministers working in their rooms. Adachi was with them. Ojiai was smoking in the lobby. Hanahira and Takeshita were in the palm room, and Sato was watching the shuffleboard tourns ment. Mr. Peirce called Mr. Sato aside. There was a pantomime of rapid, straight Anglo-Saxon gestures and dignified Oriental bows. Suddenly there floated out this remark by Secretary Peirce: "Mr. Sato, perhaps you don't understand who I am?" "I understand perfectly, Mr. Peirce, perfectly," said Mr. Sato, bowing himself

Anyhow, the Japs didn't go. Baron Rosen sneaked away at 7 o'clock in the morning, long before any one was up about the hotel except the help. Mr Vitte got a 10:55 train from Portsmouth for Magnolia. The big Russian is con-ventional in his ideas about transportation. He positively hates the water, and prefers a train to an automobile every

When Baron Rosen had to give up the Magnolis automobile trip Mr. Witte elected to go by train. Here, also, there was a hitch. It was found on the train that the chair car was full and that no places had been reserved either for Mr. Witte or for the Secret Service men who accompanied him. He had to make shift with a seat in the smoking compartment while the conductor, to whom he had been entrusted, tried to carve out a vacant seat for him. Mr. Witte's temper is a little short. He was

In the afternoon Baron Komura, Mr. Denison, the American legal adviser of the Japanese, and Mr. Sato drove out in a brougham offered them by Miss Richards of Boston, one of the cottagers here. Most of the Russian attachés went to Boston to buy some things which the stores of good old Portsmouth do not afford.

Baroff is about the only one left in the hotel this afternoon. He has been booked and landed by a summer girl in bright blue, to whom he is talking fluent French on the piazza. Baroff has never fallen before o this is something of a conquest, especially as he is to-day the only celebrity in the

Relieved of political tension, the Wentworth has fallen back into its former state of gay summer frivolity. The semi-finals of the tennis tournament are being played on the tennis court just under the back veranda. All day long automobiles have been discharging women, all in white, even to their shoes and gloves, at the front entrance of the peace palace.

At one time this afternoon there were twenty-one autos stacked up in our front yard. The visitors have hung over the rail of the back veranda all day, watching slim young men in white ducks smash and

The unofficial followers of the conference are off on walking trips about the country. A lot of the Japanese have imitated them They walk with a sturdy little stride which covers a tremendous stretch of ground n an hour and goes to explain the flanking movements in Manchuria.

Further explanation was furnished this afternoon when Takeshita and Hanahira went in swimming. In his clothes, Takeshita is just a graceful little man with military shoulders. Hanahirathey call him "Honey" in Washington-appears to be a pretty slender, almost girlish sort of a boy. But in their bathing suits they both show fine, muscular shoulders, arms of tremendous power and legs in which the little whipcords of muscle move and twinkle every time they step. Takeshita has a wad of muscle as big as European wrist just below the corner of his shoulders. Where Hanshira's forearm runs into his biceps he has a round lump of pure energy as big as a hen's egg.

The crops of two seasons have been ruined for the Chinese who live within the hostile zone in Manchuria, and many of them are destitute. The Chinese Government, it is believed here, will hold both belligerents liable for the damages sustained by its citizens, although the demand on the Japanese may be smaller than those on the Russians, inasmuch as it is by virtue of the Japanese operations, that Manchuria will be returned unencumbered to China in case a peace is made at Ports mouth.

As Detective Fogarty was prowling around the Tenderloin on Friday he saw two negro boys enter a pawnshop on the corner of Twenty-sixth street and Eighth avenue. He followed them in, and when he saw them trying to pawn a clock he gave the pawnbroker a nod and the latter refused to accept the goods. The boys left the shop. Fogarty trailed them to 112 Seventh avenue. He entered the house after them, and when he showed his badge an aged colored woman wilted and forced her sons to confess that they had received the goods from Moore.

The detective at once arrested the latter and haled him to the Jefferson Market court. He was held on a charge of grand larceny on the testimony of the two negro boys, who declared he had asked them to pawn an opera clock and two diamond rings for him. More light is expected on the situation Monday when Mrs. Kellar returns from Long Branch. There are 12,000,000 Chinese in Manchuria or rather there were before the war broke out. While it cannot be said that all of these suffered from the war the number that did sustain damage will reach into the hundreds of thousands, according to those well posted on the situation

During the fighting of the last year and a half in Manchuria the country has been devastated. Whole Chinese villages have been destroyed and China desires reimbursement, although the Government at Pekin is not at all sure of getting it, even if the claim is made. The Metrostyle Pianola

Pianola-Piano

No one, except from actual experience, can realize what a difference

the possession of a Pianola makes in the pleasures of the Home.

VEN wherea piano is in frequent use (and most pianos are not) its enjoyment is immeasurably increased because with the Pianola so many more persons can produce music themselves-a pleasure entirely different from hearing other persons play. The households are few indeed in which more than one member is an accomplished performer. But with the coming of the Pianola, every member, so far as technical ability is concerned, is on the same high level, practically, with every other.

For the Novice, or Musician, for the wife or daughter who has "had advantages," or the husband or son who has had none, but who likes music all the same and who would give much to be able to play, the Pianola is the most sensible investment that can be made for the home.

The Pianola is now purchasable in either of two forms: First, as a cabinet which will play the keyboard of any plane.

Second, in the form of the Pienole Pieno, which unites Pienole and Pieno is a single instrument. Persons who prefer the compact and convenient form of the Pienole Pieno may ex-change the pieno they now have, a fair valuation being allowed Figure ins. $250 and $200. Pinnola Pinnon, $500 to $1,000, 'P. Beth purchasable on moderate monthly payments.

OPEN SHOP LABOR BUREAU. Hebrew Boss Bakers' Association Making Active War on the Union.

It was decided yesterday by the Hebrew Boss Bakers' Association to start a labor bureau for the purpose of hiring journeymen on the open shop plan. The movement results from the general strike of kosher bakers which ended last week. The announcement was also made on behalf of the association that it has become chartered under the laws of this State and has decided to apply for admission to the New cided to apply for admission to the New York State Bakers' Association. This association is to hold its annual meeting and bread exhibition in the Grand Central Palace to-morrow, but there will be no display of keeher bread, as the Hebrew bosses will not have joined the State body until the annual meeting is over.

President Jacob Bock of the Hebrew Boss Bakers' Association gave out a statement last night in which he says:

Theurs some of our members have signed

ment last night in which he says:

Though some of our members have signed agreements with the union, we have won the fight as a body. The vast majority of our members did not yield to the union and we will enjoy a degree of freedom which we have not experienced for many years. The bakers up to this last general strike had been striking every two of three weeks, the strike always ending in the bosses yielding and paying money to the union on one pretext or another. We have now cut loose from the union. Formerly in hiring men we had to go to saloons and take the men the union allowed us, usually the men who paid the most money in drink. Now, through our labor bureau, which we will establish as soon as we take a census of the number of men at work, we can pick out our own men.

The Brotherhood of Painters and the Amalgamated Painters Society, which have been trying for over a year to amalgamate, have failed to come to an agreement and have failed to come to an agreement and stopped all negotiations. Strikes of members of the one union against the other, which had been suspended during the peace negotiations, are to be resumed. It was announced last evening on behalf of the Brotherhood of Painters that its members are now voting on the proposition to fine each member $25 who is found working on a job beside a member of the Amalgamated Painters Society.
